Mesa News Notes

University of Arizona Agricultural Extension service. E. W. Hudson representing the University in this department was in Mesa recently creating interest in the contest. The University offers a prize to the man producing the best crop. This is a state wide offer. In addition to the above the Mesa City Bank comes forward with a nice prize for the best local grower.

All who intend entering the contest should notify Mr. Hudson at Tempe, at once. Corn should be planted not later than the 25th of this month. Mr. Hudson states that he is at the service of any organization of farmers or any individual planter who cares for suggestions regarding seeding or other necessary preparation.

Red, White and Blue Posters

The advertising committee of the 4th of July celebration received yesterday a large shipment of posters, 2 1/2x4 feet, done in red, white and blue, and proclaiming in no uncertain language that there is "something doing every minute" in Mesa July 3-4. These will be distributed conspicuously over the valley in the hope of calling the public's attention to the fact that there will be "parades, speeches, banquets, races" and other things of like sort.

Next Meeting of Commercial club

The Mesa Commercial club will have its next regular meeting on Wednesday June 14 instead of the second Tuesday as usual. This change is made necessary because of conflicting dates. The meeting will be a discussion of the movement recently originated and set forth in the report of a committee consisting of Dr. J. C. Norton, Roy B. Goodrich, Dwight B. Heard and P. D. Sanders of Phoenix, J. B. Cook and Grant Jones of Tempe, Dr. A. J. Chandler of Chandler and J. G. Spangler of Mesa. The movement referred to is the securing of scientific advisors both in the way of a farm advisor and a marketing expert. The report suggested the advisability of the commercial organizations of the valley cooperating in the attempt, and with a view to further information on the subject, the meeting on June 14 will hear from Dr. Norton, Dr. Chandler, J. B. Cook, and J. G. Spangler. It is not to be a speech making affair but a conference. Other visitors from Phoenix and Chandler are expected. It is hoped that farmers in the vicinity will be present and an effort will be made to secure their attendance. Invitations have been extended to the commercial organizations of the valley. Representatives of the Mesa cannery will be heard, regarding local canning conditions.

SENATOR STAPLEY ANNOUNCES

AMUSEMENTS

PLAYING WITH FIRE
WITH OLGA PETROVA

Petrova returns today to the Columbia screen in "Playing with Fire," a five part drama of the type she revels in. "It tells of a girl caught in a blind working of a camera for a rich man. He takes her to his home to better care for her and falls in love with the girl. Later they are married and still she meets a man whom she thinks she loves but who betrays her and casts her aside after she has risked much to be with him. She returns to her husband only to find that her step daughter is in love with the same scoundrel. How she saves this girl after the threat of her former lover to reveal their relations to her husband constitutes the most of the story of "Playing With Fire." It is the eternal triangle, with the two women and the cad. Petrova never had a better part so says critics of the trade papers. With Petrova will be seen Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in a one reel scream entitled "Their First Born." Who does not recall the first born of a young wedded couple. If there can be any doubt as to how foolish two people can make themselves over a baby dip up a copy of the New Yorks and look it over. In this comedy the proverbial New Yorks have just about concluded that providence has selected them for the bringing into the world of an infant prodigy that is sure as fate destined to be come president of the United States. The Drews are much at home in this sort of comedy and with the big five act play that has served as a vehicle for the talents of the gifted Petrova there is assured the delight of the Columbia audience of much enjoyment.

PLAZA OFFERS GREAT
SERIAL PICTURE TODAY

When William Randolph Hearst announced a short time ago that he intended entering the motion picture business with his great string of magazines and newspapers, and his news-gathering organization, there was something of a sensation felt in motion picture circles. The first effort of this newly created film organization is "The Mysteries of Myra," which comes to Phoenix today and opens at the Plaza theater, backed by all the prestige which the great publicity forces of Mr. Hearst can give it. There runs an amazingly sweet love story of great power and with plenty of heart thrill. Howard

Estabrook is well known as a leading man. He possesses exceptional qualities in a photographic sense. His natural modes of expression register instantly and compellingly and his strong personality is intuitively attracting. Miss Jean Sothorn is a young beauty who made her film debut with William Fox, starting with equal drawing power with the great Betty Nansen, Theda Bara and Dorothy Bernard. Miss Sothorn's work in "The Two Orphans," "Should a Mother Tell?" and "Dr. Rameau" made film history. With two such stars as these to carry the difficult work of this exacting serial, with the Whartons, who produced "The Perils of Pauline" and many other splendid serials, with Charles W. Goddard writing the serial, and Hereward Carrington putting in the touches from the mysterious and occult, "The Mysteries of Myra" seems destined for a record breaking history making life.

Manager Caveness, who will run this great serial each Wednesday at the Plaza theater, is to be congratulated in looking up exclusively with so great a prospect. The picture will be watched with interest, both on account of the story and because of the fact that the publicity on the serial is read by twenty millions of people and more daily. In connection with this serial each Wednesday there will be run a special International Film company new weekly prepared by the Hearst cartoonists. This week the news will deal with "The Allies at Saloniki" and the cartoon is by Tom Powers.

Watch next Sunday's paper for the greatest picture that ever came to Phoenix. Every true American should make a point to see it.

Amuzu

A return today to the Amuzu of the greatest picture of the year, "Hop the Devil's Brew" assures the following of that house a mighty worth while program for the Hop scored a signal triumph when offered here the first time and is a picture that has a splendid draft in the fact that it is a story woven around a little known subject in most circles. "The Smoking of the pernicious drug Opium" Hop was made by the Smalleys who made Hypocrites and is a big picture value. It will be offered at the Amuzu in conjunction with a comedy that will make six reels of pictures hard to duplicate in the city.

Marie Doro at the Arizona

Marie Doro, the exquisite star whose previous screen appearance in "The Morals of Marcus" and "The White Pearl" has distinguished her as one of the most fascinating film favorites of the day, surpasses all her former stage or screen achievements in the Famous Players—Charles Frohman Company's picturization of Sardou's great drama of foreign political intrigue, "Diplomacy"—in the stage presentation of which, as co-star with William Gillette and Blanche Bates, Miss Doro won a notable personal triumph. Supported by her husband, a young diplomat of stealing from his dispatch box, the plans of the Gibraltar fortifications, Doro (the role assumed by Miss Marie Doro) portrays with infinite skill the fear, anger, hate, and despair, which re-
